Looking Ahead

Fescue and Zoysia: We are applying micronutrients and beneficial bacteria to aid in heat stress recovery. We also have iron and a touch of nitrogen in the mix to keep it a deeper green color.

Bermuda: We are applying high nitrogen to give the lawn a deep green color and good density. Bermuda doesn't mind the heat but it still needs proper watering to look good.

Nutsedge is a weed we are on the lookout for to spot spray.

Tip: Watering/Mowing

Things are already hot and dry. Without the usual spring rains, non-irrigated fescue lawns are already showing signs of distress. Bermuda and zoysia are in a little better shape.

If you have the ability to get some water on your lawn, early morning watering is the best. A deep soaking every other day is ideal right now.

Never mow your fescue lawn less than 3.5". As the heat comes, raise the mowing height as much as possible. The taller the plant the deeper the roots.

Bermuda and zoysia can tolerate lower mowing heights. 2.5-3.5" is common for these grasses. Once again, the taller the plant the deeper the roots.

Tree and Shrub Insect and Disease Control

ADD-ON SERVICE

Bag worms have hatched! They are super tiny and feeding like crazy. As they munch on your tree and shrubs they grow larger and become more noticeable. Right now while they are small, they are most susceptible to our application.

Japanese Beetles are close behind and will do damage quickly to trees and shrubs.

Please let us know if this is something you'd like us to add-on for you.
